DETAILED ACTION

Response to Argument

1. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 and 16 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1 – 6, 16 – 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Rosenstein et al (US 4922184).

As to claims 1, 16, Rosenstein et al disclose (fig 1) a method and the system

Generating event signals (30);

Storing the event signals (30) in a holding circuit (18, a vibrational fixture performs as a holding circuit, claim 17);

Producing response signals (24) in a dut (16) in response to the event signals (30); and

A measuring device (38) for evaluating the dut (16) based on the response signals (24) from the dut (16) and stored event signals (30) from the holding circuit (18)

As to claims 2, 17, Rosenstein et al disclose

Generating trigger signals (30) ; and

Synchronizing each trigger signal with an event signal (30) such that the trigger signal occurs between a rising edge of the event signal and a falling edge of the event signal

As to claims 3, 4, 18, Rosenstein et al disclose (fig 1) continuing to store an initial state of each event signal (30) in the holding circuit (18) after transition of the event signal to a subsequent state (startup testing) and applying a reset signal to the holding circuit (throughout the continuity test BD 26, 18)

As to claims 5, 6, Rosenstein et al disclose the event signal (30) is able to generate plural programs (as seen in the figure)

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 7 – 15 are allowed.

The prior art of record fails to disclose

A first input port for receiving a trigger signal coupled to the input of the driving circuit

Art Unit: 2829

A second input port for receiving an event signal coupled to the first end of the first conductor;

An output port for outputting a hold signal coupled to the second end of the first conductor; and

A second conductor having an impedance higher than an impedance of the first conductor, and coupled between the output of the driving circuit and a connection point on the first conductor.

4. Claims 19 –27 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The prior art of record fails to disclose

A first input port for receiving a trigger signal coupled to the input of the driving circuit

A second input port for receiving an event signal coupled to the first end of the first conductor;

An output port for outputting a hold signal coupled to the second end of the first conductor; and

A second conductor having an impedance higher than an impedance of the first conductor, and coupled between the output of the driving circuit and a connection point on the first conductor.
